It Isn't a Messenger

It sometimes happens that we get a strenuous kick on the service we DID NOT GIVE. In every case we have found upon investigation that it was not a Bellevue messenger who did the errand. Be certain you have the Bellevue service—it is prompt and trustworthy whether it be a 25c package of ice cream or a bundle containing a thousand one dollar bills. In case an accident should befall any package turned over to us, we make good your loss.

EL PASO HERALD

Optical Department

Offers You a Service Not Surpassed in the Southwest

Each Department here is just as perfect as intelligence, experience and money can make it. We recommend without reserve the Optical Department in charge of Dr. Horton.

Take Care of Your Eyes

Have you headaches for which you can find no cause? Do your eyes ache after steady use? Let Dr. Horton, our Optician, examine them. You may have only some slight disturbance. It can be easily remedied now. If you neglect it, you will have later on some serious defect. It will take time, money and suffering to remedy that; perhaps it cannot be remedied.

Depend on Dr. Horton

Don't think that a visit to Dr. Horton means necessarily your wearing glasses. If his examination shows that you need glasses he will fit them properly, but, if his examination shows that you do not need them, he will tell you so frankly.

WEDDINGS.

One of the most beautiful weddings of the season was that solemnized Wednesday evening at St. Clement's Episcopal church, uniting the lives of Miss Carolyn Kathryn Payne and Arthur Norton Harris. The ceremony, which occurred at 8 o'clock, was an event of unusual interest to a large social element, an assemblage of several hundred friends gathering to witness the marriage.

The decorations of the church were unusually artistic and marked by an air of quiet elegance. Innumerable candles in brass holders burned upon the altar, vividly bringing out the dual color arrangement of green and white. The large central aisle of the church was spanned with white arches gracefully twisted with ferns, these extended to the chancel steps, above which hung a white fern-bedecked marriage bell. Palms and potted plants were grouped about the chancel and altar, and beside them were placed numbers of tall candles in brass holders.

Just before the ceremony Parvin Witte sang "Thou Art My All" and was followed with the Lohengrin wedding march, played by Kenneth MacCallum. Upon the arrival of the bride party, white satin ribbons were stretched down the aisle by David Mayfield and Martin Davis, through which the procession passed.

First came the ushers, Page Kemp, Kurt Sauer, Frank Erickson and Val-lace Thew, walking two abreast. They were followed by the bridesmaids, Misses Laura and Hilda Sauer, who came in single file. Immediately preceding the bride came the maid of honor, Miss Anne Hughes. The bride entered on the arm of her father and they were met by the groom and his best man, Owen White, at the chancel steps, where the bride was given into the keeping of the groom by her father. The minister led the way to the altar, followed by the bride and groom, maid of honor and best man.

Rev. Henry Easter performed the impressive marriage service of the Episcopal church, and the responses were clearly made. Mendelssohn's recessional wedding march was played as the party left the church.

The bride's toilet was an exquisite robe of white crepe de chine, over heavy white satin, embroidered in style and slightly decollete. The front of the bodice and sleeves were of old Spanish lace, an heirloom in the family, and the same lace formed a panel effect in the back, reaching from the neck to the end of the skirt. A long tulle veil was worn in the quaint hood effect, held in place with a ruching of the tulle, and a shower bouquet of bride's roses was carried.

Miss Anne Hughes, maid of honor of the bride, was charming in a gown of white crepe de chine over satin, made on empire lines, entrain. Tiny pink June roses formed the attractive trimming for both bodice and skirt, and a beautiful veil of silk net was worn in hood effect. Her flowers were white sweet peas tied with tulle.

The bridesmaids were all adorned alike, in white silk, with bows over satin, made on empire lines, entrain. Tiny pink June roses formed the attractive trimming for both bodice and skirt, and a beautiful veil of silk net was worn in hood effect. Her flowers were white sweet peas tied with tulle.

The subsequent reception at the home of the bride's parents, on Myrtle avenue, was beautiful in every detail, a profusion of white sweet peas together with an artistic grouping of potted palms and ferns filling every available space in the different rooms.

The arrangement of the table in the dining room was particularly pleasing. A handsome cut glass electrolux was in the center position, resting on a Battenburg cover and surrounded with a mass of sweet peas fringed with asparagus ferns. Suspended from the chandelier was an immense bow of white tulle, the streamers extending to the corners of the table, where they were formed into a rose effect. Refreshments were served and further developed the color scheme of green and white.

The punch table, at which Mrs. M. O. Wiley, Mrs. W. A. Wise, Miss Gertrude Johnson and Miss Frances Mayfield presided, was spread with a cluny cover and decorated with sweet peas. Reyes's orchestra was stationed on the front porch and played delightful airs. In line, receiving the many guests, were: Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Payne, the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harris, the bride and groom and the bridesmaids. The young couple received numerous and costly presents from their many friends, including beautiful cut glass, silver, china and linens.

The bride, who is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walker Floyd Payne, has grown to a winsome womanhood in this city. She is very popular with a host of friends and is a general favorite in social circles. She received her education at Stewart Hall, Virginia, finishing last year.

The groom was originally from Pavillion Ill., but has lived here several years, and during his residence has made many friends. He is connected with the auditing department of the El Paso & Southwestern.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris left Thursday morning for a three weeks' tour of California, and upon their return will be 707 Myrtle avenue.

The marriage of William Ustick Carr and Miss Willie Maud Johnston, at the home of the bride, in Thomson, Ga., on Wednesday, June 14, is of much interest to the friends of Mr. Carr in El Paso, he being the assistant cashier of the American National bank here.

Of the wedding, the Progress, a Thomson paper, says in part: "Beautiful in its simplicity and appointments was the marriage of Miss Willie Maud Johnston and William Ustick Carr, which was solemnized at the old family home of the bride Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock."

There were present only the large family circle and the immediate friends. There were no attendants except the flower girls, little Miss Virginia Carr and Miss Marion Loke, nieces of the bride and bridegroom. The bride entered with the bridegroom and the stood in front of an altar in a large drawing room, the altar being formed of ferns and palms, while vases of cut flowers and potted plants were placed throughout the house in an effective manner.

"The bride wore her going away suit and hat. The dress was champagne pongee, made with a modish coat with touches of king's blue about the collar, and worn with a cream silk Marquise blouse embroidered in blue. The becoming hat of champagne braid, with its trimmings of blue velvet and roses harmonized well with the dress and showed to advantage the beauty of the bride."

"The bride is a charming representative of one of Thomson's oldest and most respected families and unites with an attractive personality the most beautiful characteristics of true womanhood."

"The gifts were unusual both as to quantity and beauty, notably handsome being those given by the groom's family."

Mr. and Mrs. Carr arrived in El Paso Thursday and will reside at 1612 East Rio Grande street.

Edward Madro and Miss May Agnes Temple, both of Mexico City, were married Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. J. E. Robertson, 1107 Rio Grande street.

Only a few intimate friends witnessed the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. C. L. Overstreet of the First Presbyterian church. The newly wedded couple left at once for Colorado Springs for a short stay, after which they will return to their future home in Mexico City.

A pretty church wedding was that of Miss Lena Meisel and David S. Sullivan, which occurred Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the church of the Immaculate Conception. Rev. Father Ray performed the ceremony in the presence of a large number of friends, who assembled to do honor to the young couple.

The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Annie Merrill, and David Sullivan, which occurred Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the church of the Immaculate Conception. Rev. Father Ray performed the ceremony in the presence of a large number of friends, who assembled to do honor to the young couple.

The groom has lived here most of his life and is well known. He is the assistant fire chief and deputy city assessor and collector. Upon their return from California they make their home in this city.

The Corset Store of El Paso

Recommends Warner's Rust Proof Corsets

WHEN you buy a corset it is worth while to get all the information you can on the subject. Many of the things that determine the value of a corset are of sight. The exterior of "Warner's Rust Proof" Corsets may resemble many other corsets, but there is no other make of corset to which the interior corresponds.

Warner's Corsets are made to wear—not to rust, break or tear. The non-rustable, non-breakable features are due to the boning, the entire service to the quality of the fabric and the making.

If a pair rust, break or tear, return it and your money will be refunded. Warner's Corsets make the fashion, because they are designed away ahead of other makes and harmonize with dress styles.

We are now showing all the latest low bust summer models.
